

A HUB OF INNOVATION AND CO-CREATION

Wipro's New Engineering Studio in O'Fallon, Missouri

Our newest campus is a dynamic collaborative workplace environment that provides that perfect balance between individual quiet spaces, vibrant community spaces, and areas for focused collaboration. We focused on convertible space, natural light, and energy efficiency to make this a hub of innovation and co-creation.

■ THE COMMUNITY

We're truly helping to build a community.

The new studio enhances our record of investing in the State of Missouri and, through our philanthropic partnerships, we will continue to grow and serve the St. Charles County region and beyond.

To further show our appreciation to the community, we named all the conference rooms after local lakes and rivers!

■ WHY ST LOUIS?

A diverse and vibrant city well known for its architectural and historical significance; St. Louis has no shortage of things to do. Whether hiking, fishing, kayaking, visiting the Gateway Arch National Park, or simply taking in a ball game – the area has something for everyone.

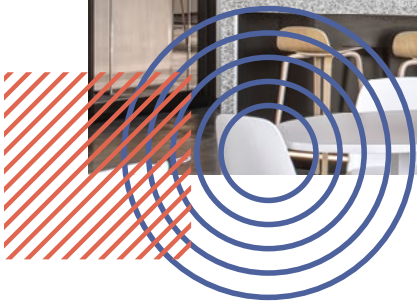

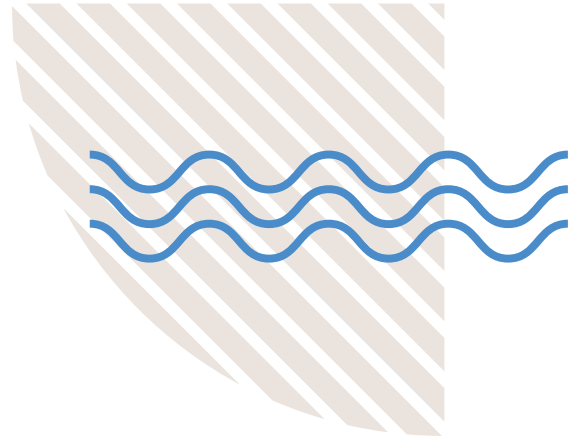

■ DESIGN

With its large windows and an emphasis on shared and convertible space, the open design allows for an abundance of natural light to pour in - boosting both productivity and employee well-being.

When devising the studio, we partnered with local design companies for that local touch.

Designed with Mother Earth in mind. All of the adjustable and ergonomic workstations are built for minimal energy consumption.

Optimized for innovation and co-creation, the studio features large collaborative whiteboards which can easily be moved and adjusted to close or open even more space.

■ WORK SPACES

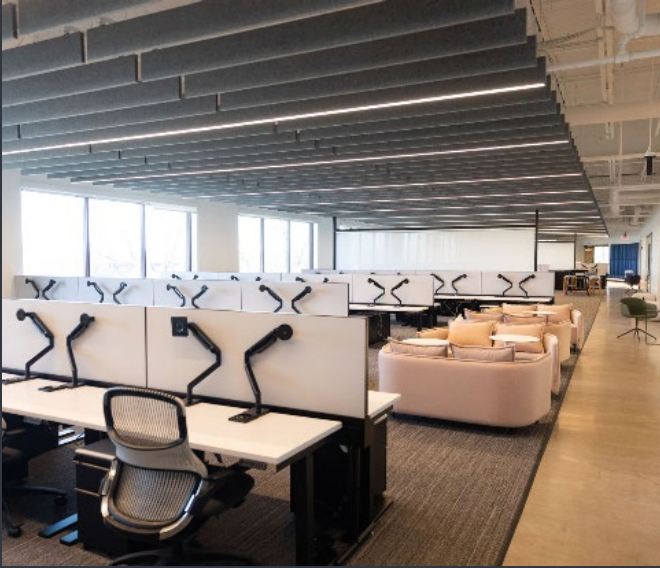

In addition to the individual workstations, the facility also boasts:

- State-of-the-art glass-walled conference rooms with integrated video conferencing capabilities and adjustable monitors.
- Huddle rooms for smaller groups to quickly collaborate and share ideas.
- And phone booths for those moments that require a little more privacy.

■ BREAK ROOMS

Designed so employees can relax and renew themselves at work.

With a selection of games including table tennis and foosball; an abundance of employee-friendly furniture to chill out on; and a variety of healthy refreshments and hot drinks available - there's no shortage of ways to unwind. Because downtime is just as important as work time!
